I. PURPOSE:

One of the customer pain points is delay in settlement of deceased constituents' accounts. This Standard Operating Procedure for Deceased Claim Settlement is intended to facilitate expeditious settlement of claims pertaining to the deposit accounts of deceased customers and to minimize hardship caused to the family members/ claimants on death of the depositors. Instructions issued up to 15.04.2024 by Bank/ Regulatory Authority have been incorporated in the SOP.

With a view to resolve the various issues involved, the existing Deceased Claim Settlement Process has been revamped and a new end-to-end digitized process flow has been put in place which will enhance the customer experience as under:

- Convenience of online lodgment of deceased claim for deposit accounts from anywhere in addition to the usual Branch channel.
- Facility to select one branch for settlement of similar category of accounts maintained at different branches.
- Complete information/ requirements for the claim at once.
- Facility to download the required forms/formats and Online submission of documents from comfort of home/office.
- Facility to track online the status of claim proposal. Regular updates to claimants.
- Creation of a specialized Centralized Claim Settlement Centre (CCSC) for processing and sanction of claims.
- Visit by the claimants and related parties to the branch only once for submission and verification of documents for final payment.

The revamped process flow will also help to ascertain the exact number of deceased claims received at the Bank level, their progress, adherence of TAT and the outward flow of deposits/funds due to deceased settlement.

II. PRE-REQUISITES

In the case of Current Account/ Savings Bank Account, the survivor(s) are required to transfer the balance to another account in their own name(s). If the survivor (s) do not have any other account, a new account may be opened after completion of the relevant formalities.

In case of Time Deposits two situations may arise as mentioned below:

a) Joint Time Deposit Account with survivorship clause, where "E or S" form has been submitted by the depositors before the death of one of the depositors.

In such a case, if one of the depositors dies, then it is sufficient for the survivor(s) to make a simple application to the Home Branch along with a photocopy of the Death Certificate (Original to be produced for verification).

b) Joint Time Deposit Account with survivorship clause, where "E or S" form has not been submitted by the depositors before the death of one of the depositors.:

In such a case, surviving depositor(s) and the legal heirs of the deceased account holder can jointly claim the amount (with interest) before maturity.

c) In case of payment of Time Deposits before maturity, the interest shall be paid at the rate applicable for the period for which the deposit has actually run and will not attract penal charges levied on normal before maturity payment cases.

d) However, on maturity, surviving depositor(s) can claim deposit without reference to legal heirs of the deceased constituent.

e) In case of time deposits, on request from the legal heir(s)/representative(s)/nominees, the deposit can be split into two or more receipts individually in the name of legal heir(s)/representative(s)/nominees. It shall not be considered as premature withdrawal of the term deposit provided the period and the aggregate amount of the deposit do not undergo any change.

15. What if the joint deposit is without survivorship clause?

When a joint account holder dies, in the absence of a clause like Either or Survivor (E or S), Former or Survivor (F or S), Latter or Survivor (L or S), the balance can be paid jointly to the survivors and the legal heirs of the deceased.

Example: If an account in the joint name of A and B, and if A dies, the balance will not be paid to B alone. It has to be paid jointly to B and to the legal heirs of A. The settlement can be made to the legal heirs of A either through legal representation or without legal representation as the case may be.
